

THE MARK IN USE TODAY

FILE	aci_logo.jpg — sent by Scott, 27 Aug 2026
FORMAT	JPEG, 973 × 965. Raster, no transparency, no vector
COLOUR	Black and one flat grey. No brand colour at all

The brand already has a palette. It is not blue.

Pulled out of the Word files on your own sent mail: the SharePoint migration proposal for Yudell & Lonoff and the two letterhead samples, both from 27 August.

PALETTE, AS AUTHORED IN THOSE FILES

#1A3D39	#A8BFB4	#CFE0D7	#F1F8F4	#6FE84E	#1A1A1A	#767676
Deep teal	Sage	Pale sage	Mint white	Stock green	Near black	Grey headings, rules, the dark band	table borders, secondary fills	row banding	page ground, and the watermark tint	the Office icons only — see the note	letterhead type	letterhead footer rule

TYPE, FROM THE PROPOSAL

Oswald

display and headings

Nunito Sans

body

Roboto Mono

references, ACI-SP-0827

FIXED COPY, FROM THE LETTERHEAD

TAGLINE	Support Done Right
LEGAL	Arcane Computing, Inc.
INITIALS	ACI — used in the mark and in document references
FOOTER	847.804.3515 · www.arcane-computing.com · scottl@arcane-computing.com

One caveat on the bright green. #6FE84E appears only inside the six stock Office icons dropped into the proposal, never in type or rules. Treat it as borrowed, not chosen. The colour the documents actually commit to is #1A3D39.

None of this is about his eye. It is mechanical.

Scott wrote that his dislike is really for the person who made it. Worth separating that from what the file can and cannot do, which is the part that is arguable.

THE SAME FILE, SHRINKING

128 px

64 px

32 px

16 px

FIVE THINGS TO SAY OUT LOUD

- It is a JPEG

No transparency. Dropped on anything but white it arrives in a white box, and it cannot be recoloured, knocked out or cut in vinyl.

- It has no vector

973 pixels is a business card at best. A van door or a shirt needs it redrawn from nothing, which is what this round is for.

- The ring loses

At 32 pixels the two arcs of text fill in and the ring reads as a grey smudge. At 16 it is a dot. Everything distinctive is in the part that dies first.

- The letterforms disagree

The A, C and I are not from one alphabet. The A's apex is malformed, the C carries a notch the others do not, and the I's serifs are a different weight.

- The arcs are unevenly set

ARCAINE COMPUTING and SUPPORT DONE RIGHT are spaced by hand and it shows, worst at the word gaps.

Five corrections to the ten I already sent

- 01

The palette was invented

None of the ten uses #1A3D39. Ward's green was a lucky near-miss at #10352C. Everything else is mine, not his.
- 02

The tagline is missing

Support Done Right is on his mark and in your letterhead header. It is in none of the ten lockups.
- 03

ACI is missing

It is his file name, his document reference prefix and the biggest thing in the current mark. Not one of the ten uses the initials.
- 04

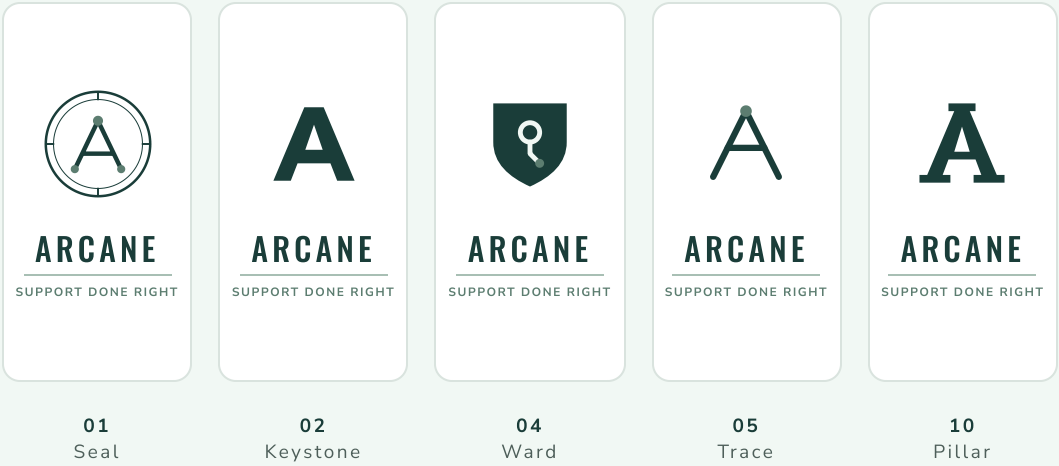

Too many symbols

You already read his taste back in August: the name should do the work, not a symbol. Of the ten, only Trace and Pillar obey that.
- 05

01 is the format he already has

Seal is a circular badge, which is exactly what he says he dislikes. Either it is the safe evolution or it is the last thing to show him. Say which before he does.

THE SAME MARKS, IN HIS ACTUAL COLOUR, WITH HIS TAGLINE

Same drawings, nothing redesigned — only #1A3D39 swapped in and Support Done Right set under the name. This is what a corrected sheet would look like before any of them is actually refined.

AND AT 16 PIXELS, WHERE THE CURRENT ONE DIES

